Sheriff's office plans substation at Standard

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department is planning to open a new substation in Standard, in a building being constructed and donated for that purpose by Standard American Legion Post 58.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson reported to the board of supervisors Friday regarding his plans for the substation, which he said will be located on Highway 603 next to the post home and manned by roughly half of the county's deputies.

Using funds the board has approved for two new deputies and budgeted money for additional cars, Peterson said he hopes to increase his force to seven or eight deputies and obtain an additional car for use in the northern part of Hancock County.

"We want to have two cars patrolling the north end of the county at all times," Peterson said. "Right now we only have one."

"I feel that the way the rural part of the county is growing, we need to provide more service out there and the American Legion and the board has made it possible."

The sheriff added that the target date for opening the substation is Oct. 1.

Eventually, the substation may also be manned by volunteers, who will take telephone calls while the deputies are out of the station.

He said once the substation is fully operational, deputies would be able to report directly to work at Standard, would file reports there and would not have to come to the jail in Bay St. Louis unless they had made an arrest and had to transport a prisoner.

In addition, a second substation once housed at Kiln Community Center on Highway 43 might be reopened if the sheriff's department can find enough funding.

According to Peterson, the Standard substation will provide full-time coverage, which will be more extensive than what used to be provided by the one-man station at Kiln.

The area to be covered by the new substation consists primarily of Standard, Leetown, Flat Top, Crane Creek, Dedeaux and Catahoula.

Navy names NORDA technical director

Washington, D.C.—Dr. Arthur Edward Blisson of McClean, Virginia, has been named technical director of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA) located at NSTL in Hancock County, Miss.

The 46-year-old nuclear physicist becomes the third technical director for NORDA which was established in 1976 at the NSTL site, as a field activity of the Chief of Naval Research. He is expected to report to his new post in the near future.

As NORDA's technical director Blisson will oversee the investigation of the world's oceans from the surface to the largely unexplored depths, the structure beneath the sea floor, and the application of the knowledge gained in this investigation to Navy problems.

On a broad scale, he will direct the activities which serve as the Navy's focal point for ocean environment science and technology.

Blisson, who holds a PhD in nuclear physics from Florida State University, has 18 years experience in ocean science and technology with a full understanding and appreciation for the oceanographic impact on Navy systems and operations.

He comes to NORDA from the Chief of Naval Operations submarine warfare office in the Pentagon where he is currently assistant technical director for the SSBN (nuclear ballistic submarine) security program, a post he has held since July 1983.

Prior to his assignment with the office of the CNO, Blisson was assistant to the technical director for acoustics and signal processing in the Strategic Systems Project Office of the Navy's Technical Plans Office in Arlington, Va.

He previously worked for the TRW company in McLean, Va. as a staff scientist and defense contractor.

He received his BS degree from the University of Massachusetts and an MS degree from Michigan State University.

During the 10 years after receiving his PhD in 1969, Dr. Blisson held various positions as manager, scientist, and scientific advisor in the acoustics department at the David W. Taylor Naval Ship Research and Development Center in Bethesda, Md.

Dr. Blisson has served on numerous Office of Naval Research Program Evaluation Panels, on an ocean acoustic review panel for the National Academy of Sciences, and numerous technical panels for the Navy's systems commands and naval operations offices.

Blisson is married to the former Miss Lillian Perrault of Chicopee, Mass. near his hometown of Holyoke where he graduated from Precious Blood High School. They have three children—two sons, Eric, 20, and Jeffrey, 12, and a daughter, Lee, 15.

Essex Cable TV will be performing a complete rebuild of its existing trunk lines during the next few weeks. This will enable the system to add more channels, offer a better quality of service and a greater variety of programming to subscribers. In order to complete this project, it will be necessary to shut down the power on each section as the new equipment is being spliced in. It may take up to three or four nights to finish each phase. To minimize the inconvenience, as much of the work as possible will be done between midnight and early morning, with this upgrade, Essex plans to launch additional basic and premium channels to meet the demands of the viewers.

Ribar says he designed the program using features from various other programs from all around the country but specializing in the areas of expertise of the center's staff.

"It is a very tightly-structured program combining Narcotics Anonymous and Alcoholics Anonymous principles with psychotherapist techniques," he said.

Since the new program has been implemented the attrition rate has declined and when people start the program now, there is a much better chance they will finish it, Ribar said.

One feature of the program is keeping a daily journal. In this journal, residents are required to record their feelings, any significant happenings of the day and assignments.

Also included in the program are family group therapy sessions, Alcoholics Anonymous meetings, children's therapy sessions and family visitations.

The only requirements for a substance abuser to enter the program are that the person is a resident of one service area including Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River and Stone Counties; is 18-year-old years old or living away from the parent's house; and is willing to participate in the program.

Anyone interested in finding out more about Live Oaks Treatment Center can contact the local office of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, located in Shieldsborough Square in Bay St. Louis. Professionals from the Gulfport office staff the Bay St. Louis office.

In addition to assistance for substance abusers a variety of other services are available through this office.

The toll-free number, 1-863-1132, is staffed 24-hours a day, seven days a week for anyone needing assistance from the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center.

regarding the second home assessments.

Murtagh, in a written statement presented to the board, contended that owner-occupied means, for tax purposes, "That the owner declares a particular property as his principal place of residence, which would suggest that the owner resides at this location a major portion of the year."

"Such occupancy would require the occupant to comply with the road and bridge laws of the state, thus requiring the taxpayer occupant to purchase motor vehicle plates in Hancock County."

"My major concern in this regard would be the fact that citizens of Hancock County would be forced to support the leisure of part-time occupants who would enjoy all of the privileges but not be required to support fully the tax base as required of those citizens who purchase motor vehicle tags."

George J. LaBrecche, a Louisiana resident who owns a home in Hancock County, was one of the people who complained to the board in January.

He said he has discussed the matter several times with Murtagh, who instructed him regarding how to apply the assessment complaint to the Board of Supervisors. If the homeowner wishes, he may also complain to the State Tax Commission for an appeal of the board decision or may, if need be, take the matter to court.

"We are creatures of the legislature, but they're asking us here to legislate and we can't do that," Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge said. "It may have to be taken to court before we can get a real decision on this."

LaBrecche said he and Murtagh "agree on our disagreement" but is of the opinion that personal property tax is being confused with the car license fee.

He feels he is being made to pay 50 percent more than the people who send their children to local schools.

In addition, LaBrecche stated he believes the second home assessment is at least partially responsible for the number of homes up for sale in Hancock County, particularly along the beachfront.

Helene Giles, another objector, said her other home is in Harrison County and she was forced to choose that home for homestead exemption purposes because Harrison County gave her a better tax break than Hancock County.

Gex said he plans to continue pursuing the matter through appropriate agencies but in the meantime second homes will continue to be assessed 15 percent unless Murtagh feels circumstances specific to a particular case, such as an owner who is away for the largest part of a year due to military service, warrant a 10 percent assessment.

Quotables by CUEVAS

In recent months we have heard about the many one-headlight vehicles traveling Highway 603 and verified the fact on a short trip Wednesday night. I left Stennis Airport a few minutes after 8 p.m. traveling south. Before I reached U.S. 90, I met about 15 vehicles, and out of these, three autos and one pickup had one headlight, and also met a second pickup at the Intersection of U.S. 90 with one eye.

The percentage of vehicles with one headlight is by far too high.

On Thursday morning I spoke to Capt. Richard L. Smith, Troop Commander of the Mississippi Highway Patrol in Gulfport about the matter of one-headlight vehicles.

Capt. Smith emphasized the fact his department has already set up several road blocks to check vehicles for proper working equipment, and definitely will be increasing these checks in his district.

As you know, many of the senior State Patrol officers retired last year and the department was short handed for several months, but this has changed with the graduation of a new class of troopers and several are stationed in the Gulfport District which includes Hancock County.

The addition of the new troopers on the Coast will enable the department to do more safety checks, Capt. Smith stated.

The dangers of Highway 603 are known to most persons and there sure is no need for vehicles using that highway, or any other roadway, with only one headlight.

It is hard enough to approach a vehicle with two headlights at night on dangerous Highway 603, much less only one.

It may be a good idea for motorists with only one headlight working to have the other fixed, as they stand the chance of receiving a citation from a State Trooper.

On Thursday morning the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce will once again conduct a Morning Coffee.

It has been several months since the chamber has had such a function, and Libby Milner, executive director tells us she already has several very good programs set up for months to come.

The Morning Coffee will be at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club, North Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis at 7:30 a.m. Thursday with Joycelyn D. Stabler as the guest speaker.

The topic of discussion will be Quality Circles, which is a practical approach to employee involvement in the decisions of an organization.

The subject of Ms. Stabler's talk appears to be interesting and chamber members and their guests are invited.

We hope to see you at the Chamber's Morning Coffee.

The People's Business

Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Quality Education Helps Business

Mississippi is a good place to do business, but improved education and health care would significantly increase the state's attractiveness to those looking for a place to locate.

The relationship between quality of life factors—such as education and health care—and economic success is an important one. The latest manufacturing climate survey published by the Grant Thornton Company proves that importance.

Mississippi continued to score high on a number of factors measuring the business climate of the 48 contiguous states, but the quality of health care and education hurt the state's overall ranking.

The state's overall ranking was 12th, including first place spots in unemployment compensation net worth, average workers' compensation insurance payments, annual average hourly manufacturing wages, and manhours lost due to work stoppages. The state also ranked in the top five in debt growth versus personal income growth, and transportation quality.

But Mississippi ranked last in the quality of health care available and 44th in quality of education. The other lowest scores were in available competent workforce, 45th, and trend toward unionization, 41st.

The consulting firm added quality of life factors to the survey this year because those factors contribute to the economic well-being of a state. Four quality of life factors were among 21 overall factors used in the ratings.

The firm said quality of life factors "can determine whether a region is perceived as a good or bad place to do business. In particular, there is a growing concern about education; manufacturers said it was the sixth most important factor in the survey."

Mississippi leaders took a big step in improving the state's education system by passing education reforms. Now, Mississippians must continue to speak up for implementation of these reforms, as well as improvements in other areas, so that the state will be the most attractive one in the nation for industrial prospects.

REPORT TO MISSISSIPPIANS

SSC Promises Scientific, Economic Boost to Nation, State

In the past few months, a great deal of talk on both the national and state levels has centered on the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC). By all reports, moving ahead with this project would provide the United States with an opportunity to retain world leadership in science and technology development.

The Super Collider, hailed as the most advanced proton-accelerator in the world, would be located in an underground tunnel 53 miles in circumference. Construction would take seven years on this largest-ever government project which will cost over $4 billion. Researchers hope to learn more about subatomic particles and the forces that hold them together, leading to a better understanding of the building blocks of the universe. Applications of this research promise great economic gains for our nation.

Years of research have gone into the development of the SSC. The project, when completed, would serve as a laboratory for basic scientific research and would attract physicists from around the globe.

In addition to scientific and economic benefits to our nation, the SSC would be a tremendous economic boost to the local area selected as the project site. The SSC would bring thousands of jobs, millions of dollars in revenue and international recognition to the state chosen for its construction.

Competition for the project is intense with more than 20 states expected to submit bids on September 2. In Mississippi, there has been an impressive outpouring of support for this project. Leaders in the scientific, educational, economic, state government and industrial fields are combining to prepare our state's proposal.

State officials say that Mississippi's geographic, geological and socioeconomic resources make it a perfect candidate for the SSC project. The proposed site in Clay, Lowndes, Oktibbeha and Noxubee Counties not only meets the geological requirements set by the Department of Energy, but exceeds them.

However, there are hurdles which must be crossed for the project to become a reality. With the intense competition for the project, Mississippi will need to prepare the best possible proposal. I'm greatly encouraged that we are well on the way to doing just that.

In addition, funding for the project will have to be secured. Many will not understand the vital importance of this project. Indeed, at a time when we are all working to hold down our federal spending, an expenditure of this magnitude will have to be justified.

No matter what the result of this competition is, I believe Mississippi will benefit. Already, the state is gaining national attention as a source of technical knowledge and ability.

I'm proud of the cooperation and support of the SSC that is so evident in Mississippi. I will continue to wholeheartedly support the efforts of our state to bring this important project home to Mississippi.

Forest Service, U.S.D.A.

Terrence Scanlon
Chairman
U.S. Consumer Product
Safety Commission
Washington, D.C. 20207

Seldom does a week pass that the Commission does not receive news of a drowning or near-drowning of a young child in a residential swimming pool. Tragically, the accident scenarios are often the same. A telephone rings, the parent or adult answers and, in the momentary lapse of supervision, a child makes his or her way to the pool, topples into the water and disappears. Minutes later, the frantic search ends at poolside and efforts to resuscitate the child begin.

How often do these accidents happen? Often enough that every parent with a child having access to a backyard pool should take a number of precautionary measures. It only takes a minute for a child to drown.

Thousands of pool accidents occur every year. Nationwide, drowning is the third leading cause of accidental death to children under five years of age; in Arizona, California and Florida where residential pools are commonplace, it is the leading cause. For instance, in Pinellas County, Florida, records show 78 drownings last year, 30 of which involved children under five, 20 of whom drowned in backyard pools.

Nationally, an estimated 240 children under five years of age drown in residential pools each year while another 3,000 children in the same age group receive hospital emergency room treatment after submersion in residential pools. Over a three-year period in one St. Petersburg, Florida hospital, 66 children were treated for submersion; 12 died, and six remain in the hospital as a result of brain damage.

Most pool drownings and near-drownings happen when the parents are home. One parent may think the youngster is with the other parent when, in fact, no one is supervising the child.

Other factors may contribute to pool drownings and near-drownings of young children beyond the lapse in supervision. To obtain more information about these factors, CPSC has undertaken a new study to provide some answers.

A year ago, the Commission launched a detailed study of drownings and near-drownings of children under five years of age that occurred in eight localities in the U.S.: Maricopa County in Arizona; Contra Costa, Fresno, Los Angeles, Orange and Santa Clara Counties in California; and Broward and Dade Counties in Florida. CPSC investigators conducted on site interviews with parents and others to gather information about circumstances involving the incidents. A final report is expected sometime this fall.

If you have a pool, the CPSC urges that you adopt the following safety practices:

- Never leave a child unsupervised near a pool. If you must leave the pool to answer the phone or for any other reason, take the child with you when you go into the house. Lock the door securely on the inside so the child cannot return to the pool on his/her own.

- Completely fence the pool and install self-closing and self-latching gates. Secure all doors and windows leading to the pool.

- Do not consider young children "drown proof" because they have had swimming lessons. They must be supervised at all times.

- Do not use flotation devices as a substitute for supervision.

- Never use a pool with its pool cover partially in place because a child may become trapped under it. Remove pool covers completely when not in use.

- Place tables and chairs well away from pool fences to prevent children from climbing into the pool area.

- Keep toys away from the pool area.

- Remove steps from above-ground pools when the pool is not in use.

- Have a telephone at poolside to eliminate the possibility of having to leave a child unattended while answering a phone in the house. A phone at poolside may also be needed in an emergency.

- Keep rescue equipment by the pool.

- Learn cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in the event you may need to help save someone's life. CPR for children is different from that used on adults, so training is strongly recommended.

Many of these precautions may seem elementary, but if every pool owner takes them to heart, many young lives can be saved. Don't spoil your summer vacation; think pool safety now before it's too late.

CHAMBERGRAM

COMMUTER BUS SURVEY

Persons who commute from the Bay-Waveland area to New Orleans are being sought by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce to complete a commuter bus survey for the county.

The survey was requested recently by public officials of Waveland, Bay St. Louis and Hancock County, along with Dennis C. Marshall, Greyhound Bus Lines district manager for the New Orleans area. Greyhound is looking into the possibility of starting a commuter bus service, and they are also interested in how people would use it.

The survey will continue through the month of August, and there must be at least 25 persons interested to establish the service. Cost will be determined by how many people sign up.

Any person traveling to the New Orleans area, whether for business or pleasure, and who would be interested in this service, should contact the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Attorney general candidate campaigns in Hancock County

Jackson Mayor Dale Danks, candidate for state attorney general, campaigned in Hancock County Friday.

Danks will face Jackson County District Attorney Mike Moore in the Aug. 25 Democratic Primary runoff for the post.

Danks issued the following statement Friday in Bay St. Louis:

"Crime costs in property and lives. Government has a responsibility to protect its citizens.

"Confidence in our criminal justice system is weakened when dangerous criminals are slapped on the wrist or are returned to the streets through a revolving door prison system.

"Crime must be met with punishment if law enforcement is to be effective.

"While the cost of crime is high, meeting it will also cost. However it must be viewed as an investment in our future; tranquility, safety of our citizens and improvement in the quality of life promote the attractiveness of Mississippi as a place to live, work, and raise a family. This has been one of our state's strengths and we must work to preserve it.

"The Attorney General must do more than simply be prepared to prosecute, he must recognize the problems of law enforcement, the lack of adequate jail and prison facilities, and the shortcomings of our parole and probation system and be an advocate for change and improvement.

"As Attorney General, I offer a comprehensive approach for addressing the needs of the criminal justice system and improving law enforcement.

"1. Support for Capital Punishment

The Attorney General takes an oath of office to uphold the law and he has a responsibility to prosecute the criminal appeals of this state. As Attorney General, I will vigorously prosecute death penalty appeals to their fullest. I will not hesitate, I will not equivocate. You will know where Dale Danks stands on capital punishment.

"2. Prison and Jail Facilities

As attorney general, I will support the construction of additional facilities at Parchman as needed to insure that when someone is convicted of a crime and is to be incarcerated we will have the facilities available.

"I will advocate the creation of a State Local Correctional Facilities Authority similar to one in Kentucky which will issue bonds to make loans to counties and cities to provide them cheaper means of financing for needed jail facilities.

"3. Assistance to local governments in maintaining minimum jail standards.

"The federal courts have imposed drastic and costly requirements on state and local governments imposing standards for the incarceration of prisoners. As Attorney General, I will provide a task force of lawyers and recognized consultants to work with local government to insure that their jails meet these standards to avoid any costly litigation.

"4. Reform of the Parole System with legislation to:

"A. Establish the authority for trial judges to impose sentences without parole for serious crimes.

"B. Enhance the professionalism of the state Parole Board by providing for staggered terms of office and qualifications for appointment.

"C. Insure that there is professional and adequate review of parole decisions.

5. Speedy Trial Act

"I would recommend the adoption of a speedy trial act to insure not only that those accused of crimes have their day in court but that those convicted can be removed from the streets as quickly as possible. I would also work with the Supreme Court to provide the means to reduce the backlog and delay in criminal appeals.

"6. Support and advocate as a state budget priority increased pay for judges and law enforcement personnel including our highway patrol and narcotics agents to attract and retain the best we can to the profession.

"7. Law Enforcement Assistance Program

"Advocate the creation of a Certificate of Participation financing program to provide a reduced cost means of financing patrol cars and law enforcement equipment. Such a program will provide the means to acquire equipment for law enforcement and reducing the impact on the budget by spreading the cost over several years."

VOTE JERRY MEDFORD for Supervisor District 3

Vote for a man who will ask your opinion and listen to you. One who will be fair to all the people in District 3. A man who grew up in an orphanage and learned the good values of life at an early age—honesty—fairness—and religious upbringing.

- One who served his country in Korea and later earned a B.S. degree on the GI bill.
- He again served his country as a Federal Special Agent for 25 years and through hard work and dedication rose to the position of Regional Director of the five central Gulf States.
- He has worked with the state of Mississippi on drug education programs for our children and now serves on the State Legislative Board for the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) working for a better life for our older citizens. He cares.

This same dedication and values will guide him in his service to you as your next supervisor.

Cochran named to Central America Observer Group

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) and two other colleagues have been named to the newly-established Central America Observer Group by Senate Republican Leader Robert Dole (R-Kan.).

The observer group was established by the Senate to monitor any negotiations in Central America which might grow out of the President's recent diplomatic initiative.

This weekend, the Senate passed a resolution establishing the Senate observer group, and Senator Dole and the Majority Leader, Senator Robert Byrd (D-W.Va.), were authorized to appoint members of the special panel.

"In accord with that resolution, I am pleased to announce the selection of three outstanding Republicans as my appointees to the group," Senator Dole stated.

The Republican leader named Senator Cochran, Arizona Senator John McCain, as co-chairman, and Idaho Senator Steve Symms.

He praised the background and experience of the three Republican Senators, saying, "Thad Cochran is a member of our Republican leadership, reflecting his great talent, independent thought and the respect he enjoys from Republicans across our ideological spectrum."

Senator Dole noted that both Sens. McCain and Symms served on the Armed Services Committee. "Senator McCain has been one of the most active, thoughtful and articulate Senators on this side of the aisle on the issues relating to Central America, and will bring that expertise to the group's examination of the security and military issues of the region, which are going to be central to any ceasefire and settlement." He said Senator Symms "has been a major spokesman of conservative Republican views on many, many national security issues."

Senator Cochran said of his appointment to the Central America Observer Group, "I am honored to serve in this capacity. The peace and security of Central America is critical to freedom in the Western Hemisphere and elsewhere in the world."

SPRINKLER SYSTEMS—James Moore, a traveling instructor for the State Fire Academy, conducts a class on sprinkler systems as part of a four-night course recently hosted by the Bay St. Louis Fire Department. Moore and a second instructor, Steve Moore, provided 32 firefighters from departments in Hancock and Harrison County with information on subjects selected by Bay

Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, including emergency vehicle operation, ropes and knots, breathing apparatus, ladders and fire behavior. Moore said the program, paid for by state funds, is available statewide and about one set of classes each month is taught in the six coastal counties. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Etv Brief

BIRD LOVER

As a boy, John Bax dreamed of photographing birds. He didn't give up. At 40 he quit his factory job in Ontario to pursue his lifelong ambition: to film the birds of North and South America in their natural habitats.

A special ETV documentary takes a look at this unusual man. "The Man Who Loved Birds: The Story of John Bax" will be broadcast at 10 p.m. Thursday Aug 20, on Mississippi ETV.

The program follows Bax on some of his expeditions into the wild. Bax's travels—by foot, canoe, bus, trailer and plane—have taken him on expeditions from the barren lands of the Arctic to the jungles of Ecuador. The result is footage of birds that have never been filmed before.

Some of Bax's associates believe he can actually communicate with birds. Bax says that such skill can "require a lot of negotiation before you are granted any privileges."

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW JOHN PERNICIARO

Tonya Denise Rawls of Progress became the bride of Andrew John Perniciaro of Bay St. Louis in an evening candlelight ceremony July 25 at Progress Baptist Church with the Reverend Billy Simmons officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie J. Rawls of Progress. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sam J. Perniciaro of Bay St. Louis.

Centering the sanctuary was a fifteen-candle brass candelabrum. Matching nine-candle candelabra flanked the altar along with ivy and ferns and white spider lilies and ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white bridal satin featuring fitted bodice with sheer insert of English net and victorian lace collar. MR. AND MRS. BRETT JEFFREY SCHNEIDER

Schneider-Walters

St. Louise de Marillac Church in Arabi, La., was the setting for the July 11 marriage of Kimberle Marie Walters and Brett Jeffrey Schneider. The Reverend John Phuc officiated at the afternoon ceremony with the Reverends Lawrence A. Hecker and Martin Shullen celebrating a Nuptial Mass.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Walters of Chalmette, La. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Alois J. Binder Sr. of New Orleans and the late Mr. Binder.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Acklin J. Dufrane of Violet and Mrs. John A. Schneider of New Orleans and the late Mr. Schneider.

Two large baskets of pink and white gladioli, spider mums, carnations and greenery adorned the altar. A bridal arch was trimmed with assorted greenery and pink satin bows, and aisle pews were marked with gladioli, mums and carnations.

Musical selections were presented by Maria Assaro and Clair Serunite, organist and soloist, respectively.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white peau de soie fashioned with fitted bodice and scooped neckline accented with embroidered Alencon lace encrusted with pearls and iridescents. Full, puffed sleeves tapered to three-quarter length and were embellished with matching lace. A large bow accented the waistline back. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a headpiece of iridescent glass orchids and pearl sprays. Both gown and veil were designed and made by the bride's mother.

She carried a cascade of glass orchids and pearls with satin ribbons. Becky L. Sullivan of Chalmette was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Tiffany Schneider of Violet, sister of the groom and Charmaine Walters of Chalmette, sister of the bride.

Angele Walters of Chalmette, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants were identically attired in tea-length dresses of crepe de ville, featuring long sleeves and high round necklines. They carried pink lace fans adorned with pink roses and satin ribbon.

Darrell D. Christian of New Orleans was best man.

Groomsmen were Troy Emmons of Violet, cousin of the groom; and Brian Molero of Chalmette.

Ushers were Rory S. Riviere and Earl Schneider III of Violet, cousins of the groom.

Johnathan M. Dufrane of Carriere, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Walters chose for her daughter's wedding an aqua crepe dress with long sleeves and cross-draped front. Mrs. Schneider wore a dusty rose tea-length dress with lace overlay and scalloped hemline.

A reception followed the ceremony at Spirits in Chalmette.

The couple will reside in Fort Polk, La.

Five members of the Friendship Oak Chapter NS DAR were in attendance when the Coastal Plains District met on Thursday in Ellisville.

The Ellisville Tallahala Chapter featured the popular muscadine grape that grows in profusion in that area by using the vine and berry in decorations throughout the C. L. Newell Student Center of Jones Junior College and juice from the grapes was served as a thirst quencher.

Brochures courtesy of Southeastern Specialty Corp. listed muscadine products including jellies, jams, preserves, syrups and juices.

Topics under discussion included a tribute to Carolyn Carson Nugent who retired this year as executive hostess of the Rosalie Mansion; United States Constitution Day, an observation scheduled for Sept. 17 at the Coliseum Ramada Inn of Jackson, and general information about the Kate Duncan Smith DAR School located in Grant, Ala. which stresses academic achievement with emphasis on patriotism and citizenship.

The school was established in 1924 by the Alabama Society DAR. Studies of regular school curriculum are adapted to local rural conditions and are graded kindergarten through twelfth grade.

Special stress is placed on home economics for girls and mechanical training for boys including wood working, horticulture and industrial arts.

The well balanced program included the National Anthem led by Mrs. Larry R. Boykin and a rendition of the National Anthem by soloist Gwen Keys Hitt. An inspiring address was given by Mississippi's state regent, Mrs. D. Kelly Love of Hattiesburg, followed by a report of state officers.

Handsome door prizes were awarded and traditional Southern dishes were served buffet style to the 155 registered in attendance. Those from the Friendship Oak Chapter included Mrs. James R. Thomas of Long Beach, chapter regent; Mrs. Philip R. Davenport of Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Robert C. Williams of Long Beach, vice regent; Mrs. William J. Gemmel of Diamondhead, treasurer; and Mrs. Sallie B. Ruskin of Pass Christian.

Replace Your Old
Air Conditioner And Gas Furnace
With The Electric Heat Pump.

Having a dinosaur of an old air conditioning unit outside and a prehistoric gas furnace inside can be very uncomfortable. It's also sending your energy bills through the roof.

You should cool your home this summer with a high-efficiency electric heat pump. It provides a constant, even cooling in your home, unlike draftier stop-and-go air conditioners. Heat pumps are also quieter, more economical and heat homes in winter.

So ditch those dinosaurs. Replace them with the modern, energy-efficient electric heat pump.

Sun screens cut the heat

By Karen L. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service
PORT GIBSON—Thrifty homeowners looking for inexpensive ways to cut utility bills may want to consider making sun screens for their windows.

Some homeowners in Port Gibson recently found out just how easy it is to make and how inexpensive the sun screens are in a workshop conducted by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The homeowners made a total of 45 sun screens in one day for a total of 675 square feet and a potential $675 in savings in one summer.

The sun screens, also called solar screens, are an inexpensive way to block the summer heat and have a fairly quick payback, according to Dr. Ron Walker, an energy education specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"The sun screens cut the sun's rays by 70 percent and pay back about $1 per installed square foot in a cooling season," Walker said.

In an average 3 feet by 5 feet window with 15 square feet of screen, a homeowner would save $15 dollars that summer. Houses very often have more than one window on the west side, which gets the day's hottest sun. One hundred square feet of sun screen could save up to $100 in one season. Walker said the sun screens will last up to 10 years so the potential for saving is great.

"For best results we advise homeowners to use sun screens on the west side of a house that has no overhang or shade and gets several hours of direct sun every day," Walker said.

The payback for sun screens is quick if homeowners learn to make them themselves. The average 15-square-foot sun screen costs about $10 to make at the Extension Service workshops held at various times in the summer across the state. The cost includes the aluminum frames, the screen and the spline that holds the screen to the frame. The Extension Service provides the necessary tools.

Paying a contractor would increase the cost and the payback would take longer.

Currently few contractors in the state make sun screens to sell so people who want them have to learn to make them, Walker said. David Clune, a carpenter in Port Gibson, attended the workshop to learn how to make the sun screens and to decide if he wants to add it to his business.

"The county home economist, Henrietta Miller, thought it would be a good way for me to increase my income and she encouraged me to come to see what it's about," Clune said.

For the screens to fit correctly homeowners must measure their windows properly before beginning. After making the frame to match the dimensions, the black fiberglass screen is placed over the lightweight aluminum frames.

Then spline is pused into the groove of the screen with a spline roller. The excess screen is cut away for a neat finish. It takes about 30 minutes to make one sun screen.

Ann Segrest of Hermanville made two sun screens in a similar workshop conducted by the Extension Service in 1985. She had two west windows with no shade, "I can really tell a big difference," she said. "Before the sun screens my Venetian blinds were hot to the touch and now they aren't."

She estimates her utility bill went down as much as $10 per month. Her sun screens paid for themselves in two months.

"The sun screens also offer a lot of privacy," Segrest said. She came back recently to the 1987 workshop to make eight sun screens for a new sun porch.

The Rev. J.D. Ramey and his wife Cleo, of Fayette, are new to making sun screens. They found out about them from their friends and were impressed with the attractiveness of the sun screens.

The sun screens cut the glare in their den where they spend a lot of time.

"We consider it our contribution to better living," the Rev. Ramey said. "It's an inexpensive improvement we can make in the parsonage, which we don't own."

Homeowners interested in learning to make their own sun screens should contact their county Extension office.

Caution for asthmatics

Sulfites no problem for most consumers

For asthmatics foods or drugs containing sulfites can create mild reactions of sneezing, hives, welts or swelling or severe reactions of loss of breath.

But a new regulation from the Food and Drug Administration bans sulfites from some foods and requires labeling on other foods, beverages and drugs.

"Sulfites are very beneficial and a perfectly safe food additive for most of the public," said Dr. Charles Shannon, a food technologist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "However 8 percent of the country's 9 million asthmatics are sensitive to sulfites and need to avoid products with sulfites."

Sulfites are food additives that have been around since Roman times when they were used as a disinfectant for wine vessels. In modern times sulfites are used to prevent browning and to slow bacteria growth. Shannon said sulfites are vital in corn wet milling and wine-making processes.

It's been only in the past 10 years that scientists recognized sulfites cause problems for some people. Sulfites were widely used on restaurant salad bars until a few years ago when the practice was discontinued.

"Restaurants mixed sulfites with water and dipped salad ingredients in it to keep them crisp and fresh and to preserve nutrients," Shannon said. "Now salad bars may not look as fresh as they did a few years ago because restaurants are either using nothing or are using ascorbic acid which doesn't work as well as sulfites."

Sulfites are not on produce at the grocery store because none of the produce is cut open.

But sulfites are still used in shrimp, baked products, frozen doughs, liquor and prescription drugs. Sulfites also occur naturally in some foods such as fermented foods.

The FDA began requiring labeling for sulfites in prescription drugs on June 3.

On July 9 meat and poultry processors began labeling their products containing sulfites. Sulfites are prohibited in fresh meat and poultry products but are permitted in stews and other processed meat or poultry products containing sulfite-treated ingredients. Vegetables are an example.

In January 1988 the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms will require alcoholic beverages to be sulfite-labeled. Shannon said this would affect mostly wines.

For the majority of the population, there is no evidence that the sulfiting agents represent any hazard at current levels of use, according to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology. The FASEB does research on the safety of sulfites in a variety of foods.

Asthmatics who must watch for sulfites should look for labels with the following terms: sulfur dioxide, sodium metabisulfite, potassium metabisulfite, sodium bisulfite, potassium bisulfite and sodium sulfite. Medical authorities advise asthmatics to carry an emergency kit of adrenalin, chloritrimeton, an antihistamine and benydril. Mild symptoms can turn severe and should not go untreated by medical personnel.

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The Clement R. Bontemps Auxiliary, Unit 139, held its regular monthly meeting on Aug. 10 at the Legion Home. Mrs. Mattie North, president, opened the meeting followed by the advance of the colors by Mmes. Lena Cuevas and Christy LaFontaine. Mrs. Roslyn Weathers, chaplain, read the prayers after which Mrs. North led the members in the recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance followed by the Preamble.

Mrs. Danita Scianna, secretary, took the roll call of officers; then read the minutes of the previous meeting, followed by the treasurer's report given by Mrs. Anna Brehm.

The secretary read correspondence from some of the girls who attended "Girls State" and they all expressed their thanks for being selected and privileged to attend this yearly event of the junior high school students. As they so remarkably put it, "This is one experience they wouldn't have missed for all the money in the world."

Mrs. Hazel Wohlschlegel, hospital chairlady, spoke on the increase in the numbers of veterans participating in the ice cream and cake parties as well as the picnics on the Farm.

An early appeal is being made for the Veteran's Gift Shop. This year the dates are Dec. 6, 7 and 8. Each member is requested to bring two gifts, for male or female, so that Mrs. Wohlschlegel can buy the necessary gifts if needed. There are expectations of a greater number of veterans to attend these gifts shops and we do need your help.

Also your generous help is requested in the collection of clothing, especially men's shoes, regardless of style or color; just as long as they are in good condition and wearable. Call Mmes. North at 467-5770 or Wohlschlegel at 467-5692 and they will be very happy to pick them up or leave them at the Legion Home on Tuesday and Saturday nights or Sunday afternoons.

Mrs. Lou Wilkerson, chairlady of education, spoke on the dates of National Education Week and the unit will host a program on Nov. 18, similar to the one given last year for students and parents.

Mrs. Roslyn Weathers was congratulated by the members for being selected as "Outstanding Auxiliary Member of the Year," and she will represent the state of Mississippi at the National American Legion Auxiliary Convention.

Daughters of The American Revolution

By Joe Pilet

Publicist, Friendship Oak Chapter

The 200th anniversary this year of the signing of the United States Constitution seems a fitting and proper time to review "The American's Creed" which was written by William Tyler Page and adopted by the House of Representatives in 1918.

Recitation of the creed is a part of the ritual repeated at each regular meeting of the Friendship Oak Chapter. Tyler died in 1942 at the age of 74. His choice of words used in the American's Creed has made him immortal.

THE AMERICAN'S CREED

"I believe in the United States of America as a Government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies."

N.O. HELP agency features toll-free line

It was the familiar, "524 H-E-L-P, can we help you?" responding to the caller who sought information or help. It was a call to the New Orleans Help Number, which, for the past 27 years, has been helping citizens of the Greater New Orleans area.

"My son is using drugs," what can I do?—typical of a daily caller.

Looking into the matter, as to what he is using, how frequently, how it is affecting his life and the life of the family, it is discovered that the boy has been using drugs for several years, and nothing has been done about it.

In fact, he has dropped out of school, is driving a car which his parents have given him, has a credit card—also afforded by mom and dad—to purchase gas and equipment, comes and goes as he pleases, has been arrested once, but was bailed out. A typical "enabling" situation.

The CADA staff begins, by calming the caller, and reviewing one by one what must be changed. "It isn't what he is using, when he uses it, how much he uses, the manner in which it is being used, or even if he becomes intoxicated—it is what the substance is doing to him."

The fact is the problem is not only affecting the boy's life, schooling, motivational feelings, and health, but it is affecting his parents, who quarrel over being firm, what to do, bailing him out of trouble, supporting him, etc.

The 17-year-old boy living in the home has responsibilities, the parent is told. "Parents have a responsibility to see that the boy is properly trained, and prepared for the future. We must say 'No' occasionally, must take a stand, must face the ordeal, if we want to call it that, of doing something about what is happening," the caller is told.

"On the other hand, the boy, if he lives at home, must follow the rules of the house. His comings and goings, returning intoxicated, cannot be tolerated."

"But if we face him with the problem," says the mother, "he might react violently. If we give him an ultimatum, he might leave and would go down the drain."

It is perplexing, but the parent must face the reality that at the present time everyone is going down the drain—the boy, the other children in the family and the parents.

Some form of intervention, or confrontation is suggested, and the situation now takes a turn.

Something is being done; changes will be a search for treatment, or ultimately the boy will face the consequences of not being pampered, bailed out of trouble, will have to work for what he has, etc. It is a form of tough love. And the Tough Love group is suggested, as are other self help groups.

According to the Committee on Alcoholism & Drug Abuse, families involved in alcohol and drug problems, eventually become "families on the rocks." Everyone suffers. Knowing where to get help, is the first step to recovery and changing the situation.

The second and perhaps most important step is to pick up the phone and call 524 H-E-L-P, or tollfree, 1-800-228-9711, wait for tone then dial 601.

The caller will be reassured and advised: not to panic; not to lecture; not to become frightened, but to keep cool, to get the facts, and to set a good example; to be firm and fair in meeting out discipline; not to condemn; not to formulate countless and unachieving rules and regulations; to gain the confidence of the child and to seek advice.

The Help Number, operated by the Committee on Alcoholism & Drug Abuse for Greater New Orleans, a United Way Agency, offers information and direction over the phone.

In addition to telephone information and referral, confidential consultation is available. A simple call for an appointment can arrange a personal or family session to determine the scope of the problem and the direction to take.

The HELP Line is backed by a comprehensive referral system, capable of guiding callers to resources for every conceivable problem or difficulty. All calls are handled on a strictly confidential basis.
